Psalms 143:8

Let the morning bring me word of your unfailing love, for I have put my trust in you.
Show me the way I should go, for to you I entrust my life. NIV version.

Would you like to be a teacher in today's world? I for one would find it extremely difficult to manage and teach a whole class of youngsters, and more so to ensure they were actually learning something that they would need in their everyday life after school. We see in the verse that King David was willing to learn from God and continually asked God, for the way forward on his path of life every day. Are you willing to let God into your heart every day? David was asking God to be in his mind from the moment he woke up, trusting in God to be with him and with him bedside him he did not need to worry about daily things. He trusted in God to raise his spirits to see him through the day filling his soul with the love of God. David is a wonderful example of how we should start our day. Reminds me of the song, 'Put your hand in the hand of the man who stills the water'. David did not just sit back in his trust he wanted to learn so much more from God. He wanted God to lead and tutor him along the pathway. David again was putting all his trust in God to help him grow therefore allowing him to know the right ways to help lead his people. When you pray for God to lead you as he led David and put your trust in him just as David did then the worries and stresses of everyday life will fade into the background. Let the Holy Spirit lead you through God's word and your heart and soul will be lifted up to get you through the day.

Loving God enter our hearts and minds as we rise every morning teach us to trust in you to lead us in our daily lives. Amen.
